The Helms Academy is an exciting partnership between Goodwill of Southern New Jersey and Philadelphia, Drexel University, Camden County College, and the Community College of Philadelphia. We're here to help adult students earn their high school diploma, while earning up to 30 college credits in the process. Our scheduling is flexible to fit your busy lifestyle, and we offer a host of other basic skills training and 1:1 tutoring to help get you back on track. When you're ready, we also offer a referral to a spread of financial aid options if you want to continue your education in college, and job development and placement services to find a great fit for you in the workforce.
